

ADRIAN K. COUSENS

SENIOR COUNSEL

Adrian K. Cousens is an experienced litigator who represents individuals and companies in all phases of litigation before state and federal courts, as well as administrative agencies at the trial and appellate level, in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. His practice focuses on commercial litigation, employment litigation and personal injury. Adrian has worked with small and large businesses in a cross section of industries including logistics, construction, manufacturing, agriculture, hospitality, architecture and engineering, education, health services, security and real estate. Adrian also practices outside of the courtroom, partnering with his colleagues in counseling clients on litigation prevention.

Prior to joining Gross McGinley, Adrian worked as a litigator in a New Jersey firm, working complex cases involving catastrophic personal injury, construction accident and defect, toxic tort, premises liability, school law, police liability litigation, school and public board representation, public entity/employee liability, civil rights and employment law, and other general liability matters.

Specific examples of his experience include:

- Successful resolution of wrongful death suits involving claims against corporations in the road construction and building trades
- Litigating and negotiating settlement for complex construction defect claims in multiple unit residential and commercial properties
- Handling of a complete range of personal injury claims from chronic soft tissue damage in slip and fall and motor vehicle cases to traumatic brain injury and paralysis in industrial accidents

Before his legal career, Adrian worked in the semiconductor industry and was a Sergeant in the United States Air Force, working in the industrial hygiene field.
