SPEAKERS

Allen I. Tullar, Esq.

Constance K. Nelson, Esq.

Last year, we provided an overview of the role of financial professionals in domestic relations. Join us this fall as we take a deeper dive and look at how tax returns are used in divorce proceedings and the important role accountants and financial planners play in serving their clients' interests. During this one-hour seminar, we will review net income, allowable exemptions, valuation, and examples of how these calculations differ between the IRS and domestic relations. We will touch on the interplay between an individual tax return and business tax return when examined during a divorce proceeding. Our discussion will also include the role of financial professionals in providing insight into their clients' financial situations and how they can assist in a more positive divorce settlement for their client.

We hope you will join us for this informative seminar this fall!
